

AMZN

Working conditions

“– The sad news is that there are still people who come to work after the bell. I remind you that at the moment of the bell you should be at your workstations. That is why we want to meet you and motivate you a little, the manager announced.

– We will monitor you: in three minutes from the end of the break there must be at least one package on the conveyor belt. If there is not a minimum of one package, it will be on your file. The file will go to the recruitment department. I don't have to say what happens if you get a few of those records.”

source: Karolina Kijek, 7 dni na taśmie w Amazonie, “Gazeta Wyborcza”, 2015