

AMZN

Corporate culture

“How do you fire people? Two managers always come in, just before a break or at the end of a shift. They talk to a person, while other employees leave for a break. When the others are back, that person is already gone.”

source: private conversation with an Amazon worker